Scope and purpose

Scope

This document is primarily intended for internal use but may be shared with appropriate external parties, such as design agencies or contractors. It covers rules, general principles, and a dash of common sense regarding all visual assets, from photography to logos to typesetting.

Purpose

A strong brand will help us attract students who might otherwise choose our competitors. As we continue to grow, a powerful identity will help us protect and perpetuate the things that have made us successful for so long.

Consistency is fundamental to any brand's strength and integrity. For us, this means being consistent in our expression, whether in writing, on a printed letterhead, or with a logo on the front of a building. Everything we do must feel unequivocally part of the BIMM University.

These guidelines provide everything you need to support and strengthen the visual identity of one of Europe's leading brands in creative arts education.

Our story

What started as a single music college in Brighton has, over more than 40 years, grown into a family of schools across the UK, Ireland, and Germany. BIMM University now encompasses not only music colleges but has also expanded into film, creative technology, and performing arts education with the Institute for Contemporary Theatre, Performers College, and Screen and Film School.

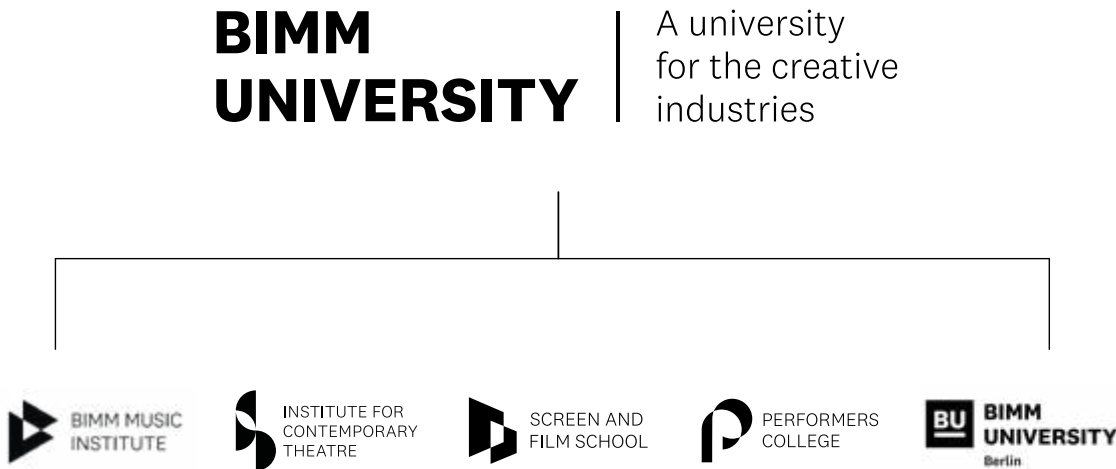

We achieve excellence in learning by uniting top creative educators and industry leaders. Our practical approach to education, coupled with our incredible industry connections, sets us apart from other music and arts colleges. It's crucial that our brand reflects this integration into the industry.

Our network of schools and courses across various creative industries drives our identity, making BIMM University a distinct brand in itself. Understanding this is central to solidifying and nurturing our brand, thereby showing students the benefits of studying within our diverse creative sphere.

Brand architecture

In the UK and Ireland, BIMM University consists of four distinct schools, each housed on our campuses offering specialist faculties in Film, Music, Creative Technology, and Performing Arts.

In Germany, BIMM University is known as BIMM University Berlin and offers a range of these faculties under that name in one location.

BIMM University logo

The master BIMM University logo serves as the stamp of our institution, developed with a clean, sharp, and contemporary design that aligns with our broader identity.

In most instances, the master university logo, inclusive of the strapline, is recommended to be used. Exceptions arise when size constraints compromise the legibility of the strapline.

BIMM

for the creative industries

The breakdown

The master BIMM University logo comprises three core elements.

BIMM University text

The BIMM University text is in a bold weight and capitalised, this ensures clarity and provides a clear hierachry when integrated with school logos.

BIMM
UNIVERSITY

Line

The line is used as a divider between the university text and either strapline or school logos.

Stapline

The strapline defines our identity as a University. This space can also accommodate the school logos.

industries

Alt Logo

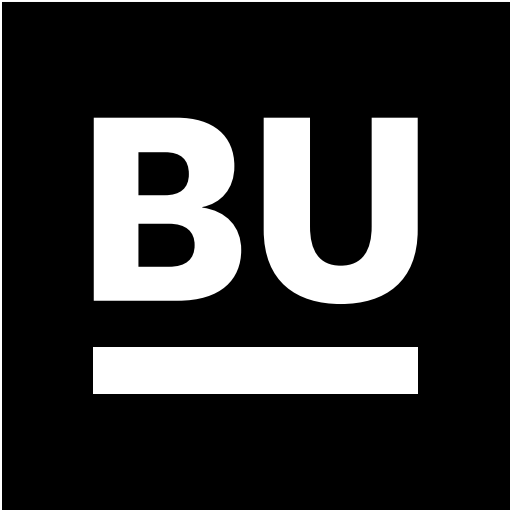

Our alt logo serves as a variation of the master logo, designed for compact spaces.

With the introduction of an icon and removal of a strapline it ensures readability when scaled down, and ensures adaptability that maintains a cohesive identity across platforms.

BIMM University Icon

The BIMM University icon is created for clarity, showcasing our initials in a clean design.

Primarily intended for confined spaces such as favicons or social media icons, its simplicity ensures visibility and maintains a distinct presence.

School logos

Each school has its own distinct logo, featuring an icon and the school's title. The designs unite us as one brand while ensuring each school maintains a unique identity.

BIMM University Berlin

Branded house logos

To demonstrate our schools' affiliation with BIMM University, we use branded house logos. By replacing the strapline from the master logo with the full school logo (including the icon), we cement the relationship.

Displaying the BIMM University type in bold and the school name in light establishes a clear hierarchy.

As BIMM University Berlin already integrates the university name within its logo, they do not need to use the branded house option.

When to use the BIMM University logo:

When referring to the university as a whole, whether as an institute or campus the master BIMM University logo should be used.

Examples would include:

- UCAS listings and events
- Campus events for multiple schools eg. graduation and induction
- University-wide literature eg. Policy documents
- Central or campus level services: email signatures, banners, posters etc
- International promotion

BIMM

When to use

Branded house logo:

When addressing a new audience in reference to a particular school or faculty it is advisable to use a branded house logo, this will clarify that the school is part of the wider university.

Examples would include:

- School/faculty specific recruitment events
- Exterior school signage
- School/faculty specific advertising

BIMM

BIMM MUSIC
INSTITUTE

When to use

School logos:

School logos are primarily for internal use and audiences who are already aware of the school's relationship with BIMM University.

Examples would include:

- School specific events eg. gigs and masterclasses
- Interior school signage

Protecting the logo

To preserve the visual consistency of our logos, specific guidelines govern the extent of clear space required around them.

This exclusion zone would be 10mm for an A4 document and this ratio should be scaled up appropriately for larger formats as required.

X = 10mm from boundary box

Minimum size usage

To maintain clear legibility standards, it is imperative that the master BIMM University logo is never employed at a width below 60mm in any printed applications, specifically those of A6 size and larger.

The logo can be resized to a width of 50mm for applications such as business cards and staff/ student IDs (85mm × 55mm), and other smaller formats.

Colours

The University and School logos should be used exclusively in black or white unless otherwise instructed. The clean, monochrome colour scheme is key to maintaining our identity's quality.

Any colour variations must be approved by the marketing department first.

Logo Positioning

The preferred positioning of our logo is in the top left corner. However, other placements are acceptable depending on the design composition.

Careful consideration should be given to any logo's position, depending on the advertising or print format used.

Logo Positioning

At times, logos may be superimposed onto imagery. In these instances, it is crucial that the logo remains distinctly legible, ensuring its visibility and impact.

Upholding Authenticity

Our logo stands as the official stamp of the university and demands the utmost respect in its representation.

They should be faithfully reproduced without any alterations, stretching, or manipulation, emphasising the importance of maintaining consistency and integrity in its visual presentation.

Colour palettes

Primary: The primary brand colours are 100% black and 100% white. These core colours are supported by a palette of accent colours.

Accents: Enhance the primary black and white with a range of accent colours from our university palette. When promoting the university as a whole, any accent colour may be used from this selection to complement the design.

When promoting a single school or faculty, use the dedicated faculty accent colours.

Individual school palettes

Historically, each of our schools has been characterised by a unique trio of colours (below), symbolising the distinct identity of each institution.

As we transition to the university model, this three-colour tradition will become legacy. A broader selection of colours will be available from our enhanced university palette following a transition period.

University colour palettes

We have introduced a fresh selection of colours for the university, building upon the foundation of our individual school palettes.

This evolution allows for a contemporary and dynamic visual identity while maintaining a connection to the history and identity represented by our heritage school colours.

The selection of colours in our secondary palette prioritises flexibility, with no specific assignment to a particular school or department.

Faculty patterns

For each faculty, we have identifiable patterns that when combined with the specific colour palette, create a unique design identity.

The patterns should be used as accents and not dominate the design and are primarily to be used in designs that focus on a single specific faculty.

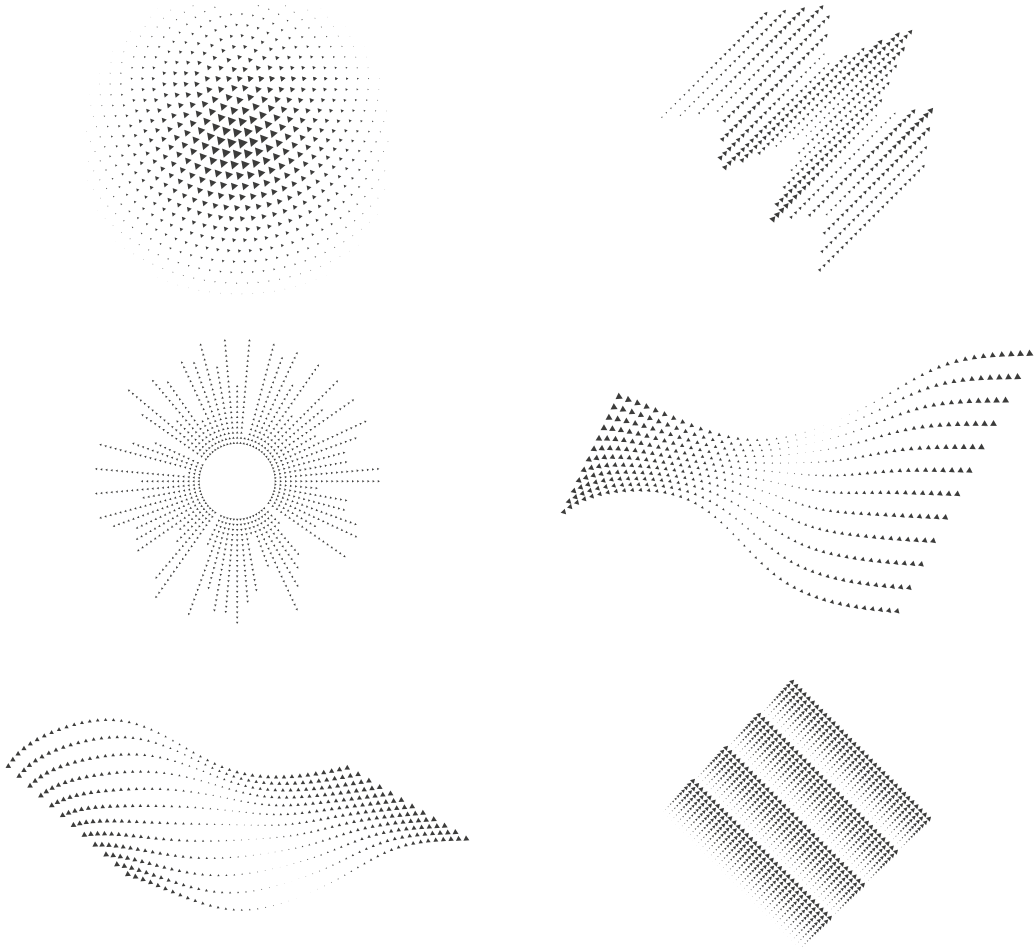

Patterns should be used exclusively from our pattern library and not recreated, this will ensure consistency of shape.

Typeography

Our chosen typeface is National 2, designed by Klim Type Foundry, an independent typeface design studio based in Wellington, New Zealand. We use four font weights across our print and digital media, each serving a distinct purpose.

National 2 | Light

Typeography Useage

BIMM University primarily uses National 2 Bold and Light. Additionally, regular and medium weights are available, though not implemented as extensively as bold and light options.

This selection ensures a versatile typographic approach across various materials and channels.

National 2 | Bold

Strong

Typeography Useage

Our strategic choice of fonts and weights contributes to a unified and cohesive design, which reinforces our identity and ensures a seamless experience for anyone interacting with our various materials and platforms.

National 2 | Light

Clean

Concise

Typeography Useage

National 2 Bold commands attention and communicates strength.

This weight is strategically employed for key elements such as: headlines, or statements, adding a visual punch and reinforcing the university's messaging with a bold and authoritative presence.

In both digital and print applications, the use of bold type enhances readability and ensures a powerful visual impact.

National 2 | Bold

Typeography Useage

National 2 Light imparts a subtle elegance and sophistication.

This weight is chosen for its delicate appearance, making it ideal for conveying nuanced information and maintaining a modern, clean aesthetic.

Used primarily for body text or softer elements, light type enhances readability while infusing a sense of openness and approachability.

Photography

Our photography encompasses three key areas: facilities, student life, and the locations of our colleges and cities, each with its own distinctive style.

Facilities and equipment

Focus on macro photography that highlights details and key characteristics.

We want to show the quality of our equipment and facilities in a way that is innovative and complements design.

Student life photography

Our student life imagery captures the human dimension of attending university, portraying a sense of belonging and network.

The range should cover social moments, collaboration, and reflection, shot both within the colleges and around the city.

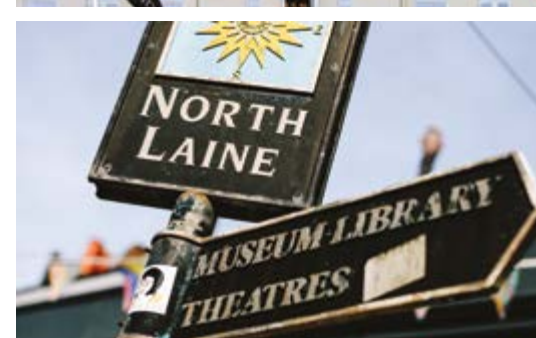

Portraits of specific students or bands can be more stylised.

Cityscape photography

Capture the unique details of our cities, using architecture abstractly to enhance design work.

Be sure to avoid clichéd city shots where possible and find something new and exciting for our audience.
